THE COUNCIL,

HAVING REGARD to Article 5 b) and c) of the Convention on the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development of 14th December 1960;

HAVING REGARD to the Decision of the Council of 4th February 1969 establishing an OECD "Scheme" for the Application of International Standards for Fruit and Vegetables, as amended [C(68)134(Final), C(69)118(Final), C(69)119(Final), C(70)119(Final), C(70)181(Final), C(73)139(Final), C(76)47(Final), C(76)48(Final), C(76)49(Final) and C(76)50(Final)];

HAVING REGARD to Resolution No. 222 by the Inland Transport Committee of the Economic Commission for Europe on the standardization of packaging for the international transport of fresh or refrigerated fruit and vegetables;

On the proposal of the Committee for Agriculture;

RECOMMENDS:

1. That countries participating in the OECD Scheme for the Application of International Standards for Fruit and Vegetables should apply, under the Scheme, the recommendation on the standardization of packaging for the international transport of fresh or refrigerated fruit and vegetables contained in Resolution No. 222, referred to above, as set out in the Annex¹ hereto².

2. The national representatives responsible for control shall report to the Secretary-General where necessary on the implementation of the present Recommendation and on any difficulties encountered in its application. The substance of this report shall be submitted by the Secretary-General to a Plenary Meeting provided for by the Decision of the Council of 23rd September 1969 [C(69)118(Final)] amending the Decision of 4th February 1969, referred to above.

¹ The present Recommendation does not apply to the long distance transport of fresh or refrigerated fruit and vegetable by sea.

² The Annex and its Appendices 1 to 4 were distributed under reference C(76)124(Final). This document can be obtained from the OECD Microfilm Library and is available at: <http://www.oecd.org/tad/code/19513299.pdf>

About the OECD

The OECD is a unique forum where governments work together to address the economic, social and environmental challenges of globalisation. The OECD is also at the forefront of efforts to understand and to help governments respond to new developments and concerns, such as corporate governance, the information economy and the challenges of an ageing population. The Organisation provides a setting where governments can compare policy experiences, seek answers to common problems, identify good practice and work to co-ordinate domestic and international policies.

The OECD Member countries are: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Chile, the Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Korea, Latvia, Luxembourg, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Portugal, the Slovak Republic, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, the United Kingdom and the United States. The European Union takes part in the work of the OECD.

OECD Legal Instruments

Since the creation of the OECD in 1961, around 450 substantive legal instruments have been developed within its framework. These include OECD Acts (i.e. the Decisions and Recommendations adopted by the OECD Council in accordance with the OECD Convention) and other legal instruments developed within the OECD framework (e.g. Declarations, international agreements).

All substantive OECD legal instruments, whether in force or abrogated, are listed in the online Compendium of OECD Legal Instruments. They are presented in five categories:

- Decisions: OECD legal instruments which are legally binding on all Members except those which abstain at the time of adoption. While they are not international treaties, they entail the same kind of legal obligations. Adherents are obliged to implement Decisions and must take the measures necessary for such implementation.
- Recommendations: OECD legal instruments which are not legally binding but practice accords them great moral force as representing the political will of Adherents. There is an expectation that Adherents will do their utmost to fully implement a Recommendation. Thus, Members which do not intend to do so usually abstain when a Recommendation is adopted, although this is not required in legal terms.
- Declarations: OECD legal instruments which are prepared within the Organisation, generally within a subsidiary body. They usually set general principles or long-term goals, have a solemn character and are usually adopted at Ministerial meetings of the Council or of committees of the Organisation.
- International Agreements: OECD legal instruments negotiated and concluded within the framework of the Organisation. They are legally binding on the Parties.
- Arrangement, Understanding and Others: several ad hoc substantive legal instruments have been developed within the OECD framework over time, such as the Arrangement on Officially Supported Export Credits, the International Understanding on Maritime Transport Principles and the Development Assistance Committee (DAC) Recommendations.
