Background Information

The Recommendation on Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) Measures Related to Transfer Pricing was adopted by the OECD Council on 23 May 2016 on the proposal of the Committee on Fiscal Affairs in its BEPS format. The Recommendation follows from the BEPS Action Plan that identified that the pre-BEPS international standards for transfer pricing rules could be misapplied so that they result in outcomes in which the allocation of profits is not aligned with the economic activity that produced the profits. Accordingly, there was a need to translate the specific transfer pricing measures agreed in the 2015 BEPS Reports on Actions 8-10 and 13 into a new self-standing OECD instrument which reflects only the BEPS-related work on transfer pricing, and not OECD's broader work on transfer pricing. Thus this new self-standing OECD instrument is one to which BEPS Associates, and other non-Members can adhere without adhering to the full set of the OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines. It should be noted that the Recommendation does not contain a provision requiring reports to Council on monitoring its implementation since the implementation of the BEPS package, including the measures on transfer pricing, will be monitored in detail as part of the BEPS Project.

THE COUNCIL,

HAVING REGARD to Article 5b) of the Convention on the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development of 14 December 1960;

HAVING REGARD to the Declaration on Base Erosion and Profit Shifting [C/MIN(2013)22/FINAL];

CONSIDERING that the Committee on Fiscal Affairs meeting in its BEPS format, i.e. OECD Members as well as Argentina, Brazil, the People's Republic of China, Colombia, India, Indonesia, Latvia, the Russian Federation, Saudi Arabia and South Africa participating on an equal footing, approved on 21 September 2015 the 2015 BEPS package (the 2015 BEPS Reports and the 2015 BEPS Explanatory Statement) and that these countries have committed to the comprehensive BEPS package and to its consistent application (BEPS Explanatory Statement, paragraph 11);

CONSIDERING that the Council endorsed on 1 October 2015 the BEPS Explanatory Statement and the measures set out in the 2015 BEPS Reports [C(2015)125/REV1] and that the G20 Leaders endorsed the 2015 BEPS Package at the Antalya Summit on 15-16 November 2015;

MINDFUL that, as identified by the Base Erosion and Profit Shifting (BEPS) Action Plan, the existing international standards for transfer pricing rules can be misapplied so that they result in outcomes in which the allocation of profits is not aligned with the economic activity that produced the profits;

CONSIDERING that the 2015 BEPS Report on Actions 8-10 "Aligning Transfer Pricing Outcomes With Value Creation" (hereafter the "Actions 8-10 Report") has targeted this issue to ensure that transfer pricing outcomes are aligned with value creation [C(2015)125/ADD8];

CONSIDERING that the 2015 BEPS Report on Action 13 "Transfer Pricing Documentation and Country-by-Country Reporting" (hereafter the "Action 13 Report") has developed a three-tiered standardised approach to transfer pricing documentation to enhance transparency for tax administration, taking into consideration the compliance costs for business [C(2015)125/ADD11];

On the proposal of the Committee on Fiscal Affairs in its BEPS format:

- I. RECOMMENDS that Members and non-Members having adhered to this Recommendation (hereafter the "Adherents") follow the guidance set out in the Actions 8-10 Report and the Action 13 Report.
- II. INVITES Adherents and the Secretary-General to disseminate this Recommendation;
- III. INVITES non-Adherents to take due account of and adhere to the present Recommendation.

About the OECD

The OECD is a unique forum where governments work together to address the economic, social and environmental challenges of globalisation. The OECD is also at the forefront of efforts to understand and to help governments respond to new developments and concerns, such as corporate governance, the information economy and the challenges of an ageing population. The Organisation provides a setting where governments can compare policy experiences, seek answers to common problems, identify good practice and work to co-ordinate domestic and international policies.

The OECD Member countries are: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Chile, the Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Korea, Latvia, Luxembourg, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Portugal, the Slovak Republic, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, the United Kingdom and the United States. The European Union takes part in the work of the OECD.

OECD Legal Instruments

Since the creation of the OECD in 1961, around 450 substantive legal instruments have been developed within its framework. These include OECD Acts (i.e. the Decisions and Recommendations adopted by the OECD Council in accordance with the OECD Convention) and other legal instruments developed within the OECD framework (e.g. Declarations, international agreements).

All substantive OECD legal instruments, whether in force or abrogated, are listed in the online Compendium of OECD Legal Instruments. They are presented in five categories:

- Decisions: OECD legal instruments which are legally binding on all Members except those which abstain at the time of adoption. While they are not international treaties, they entail the same kind of legal obligations. Adherents are obliged to implement Decisions and must take the measures necessary for such implementation.
- Recommendations: OECD legal instruments which are not legally binding but practice accords them great moral force as representing the political will of Adherents. There is an expectation that Adherents will do their utmost to fully implement a Recommendation. Thus, Members which do not intend to do so usually abstain when a Recommendation is adopted, although this is not required in legal terms.
- Declarations: OECD legal instruments which are prepared within the Organisation, generally within a subsidiary body. They usually set general principles or long-term goals, have a solemn character and are usually adopted at Ministerial meetings of the Council or of committees of the Organisation.
- International Agreements: OECD legal instruments negotiated and concluded within the framework of the Organisation. They are legally binding on the Parties.
- Arrangement, Understanding and Others: several ad hoc substantive legal instruments have been developed within the OECD framework over time, such as the Arrangement on Officially Supported Export Credits, the International Understanding on Maritime Transport Principles and the Development Assistance Committee (DAC) Recommendations.
