Background Information

THE COUNCIL,

HAVING REGARD to Article 5 b) of the Convention for Economic Co-operation and Development of 14 December 1960;

HAVING REGARD to the Recommendation of the Council of 21 September 1977 on Tax Avoidance and Evasion [C(77)149/FINAL];

HAVING REGARD to the Recommendation of the Council of 23 September 1980 concerning a Standardised form for Automatic Exchange of Information under International Tax Agreements [C(81)39/FINAL];

HAVING REGARD to the Recommendation of the Council of 23 July 1992 concerning an OECD Standard Magnetic Format for Automatic Exchange of Information under International Tax Agreements [C(92)50/FINAL];

HAVING REGARD to the Recommendation of the Council of 13 March 1997 on the Use of Tax Identification Numbers in an International Context [C(97)29/FINAL];

CONSIDERING that most Conventions on Income and on Capital signed by Member countries follow Article 26 of the OECD Model Convention on Income and Capital in providing for co-operation between competent authorities of the Contracting States, in the form of exchanges of information necessary for carrying out the Convention or of their domestic laws concerning taxes covered by the Convention;

CONSIDERING that the joint Council of Europe/OECD Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters came into force on 1 April 1995;

CONSIDERING that the Council instructed the Committee on Fiscal Affairs to keep under review the use of the 1992 OECD Standard Magnetic Format;

CONSIDERING that the experience with the OECD Standard Magnetic Format for automatic exchanges of information under international tax agreements has been positive and made clear the need for improvements in the Standard Magnetic Format;

CONSIDERING that these improvements will facilitate the finalisation of the design of a new standard for electronic exchange of tax information;

I. RECOMMENDS to Members:

- a) To use the revised OECD Standard Magnetic Format in appendix hereto, which is an integral part of this Recommendation, when making automatic exchanges of information concerning income realised as of the tax year 1997 and the subsequent years;
- b) To discontinue using the OECD Standard Magnetic Format included in the Recommendation of the Council [C(92)50/FINAL] of 23 July 1992 for exchanges concerning tax years 1997 and following.

II. INSTRUCTS the Committee on Fiscal Affairs to keep under review the use of the revised Standard Format and to report back to the Council as appropriate.

About the OECD

The OECD is a unique forum where governments work together to address the economic, social and environmental challenges of globalisation. The OECD is also at the forefront of efforts to understand and to help governments respond to new developments and concerns, such as corporate governance, the information economy and the challenges of an ageing population. The Organisation provides a setting where governments can compare policy experiences, seek answers to common problems, identify good practice and work to co-ordinate domestic and international policies.

The OECD Member countries are: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Canada, Chile, the Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Korea, Latvia, Luxembourg, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, Portugal, the Slovak Republic, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, the United Kingdom and the United States. The European Union takes part in the work of the OECD.

OECD Legal Instruments

Since the creation of the OECD in 1961, around 450 substantive legal instruments have been developed within its framework. These include OECD Acts (i.e. the Decisions and Recommendations adopted by the OECD Council in accordance with the OECD Convention) and other legal instruments developed within the OECD framework (e.g. Declarations, international agreements).

All substantive OECD legal instruments, whether in force or abrogated, are listed in the online Compendium of OECD Legal Instruments. They are presented in five categories:

- Decisions: OECD legal instruments which are legally binding on all Members except those which abstain at the time of adoption. While they are not international treaties, they entail the same kind of legal obligations. Adherents are obliged to implement Decisions and must take the measures necessary for such implementation.
- Recommendations: OECD legal instruments which are not legally binding but practice accords them great moral force as representing the political will of Adherents. There is an expectation that Adherents will do their utmost to fully implement a Recommendation. Thus, Members which do not intend to do so usually abstain when a Recommendation is adopted, although this is not required in legal terms.
- Declarations: OECD legal instruments which are prepared within the Organisation, generally within a subsidiary body. They usually set general principles or long-term goals, have a solemn character and are usually adopted at Ministerial meetings of the Council or of committees of the Organisation.
- International Agreements: OECD legal instruments negotiated and concluded within the framework of the Organisation. They are legally binding on the Parties.
- Arrangement, Understanding and Others: several ad hoc substantive legal instruments have been developed within the OECD framework over time, such as the Arrangement on Officially Supported Export Credits, the International Understanding on Maritime Transport Principles and the Development Assistance Committee (DAC) Recommendations.
